I don't remember Glen because he and my mom divorced when I was 5. Although mom speaks little of him, my cousins (on my moms side) say they remember my father, at about 20yrs old, as funny, silly, and very athletic. He could run! One thing everyone agrees with is, he liked to look at things from the brighter side. These are all qualities I'm privileged to have inherited from him. I'm proud to hear his legacy was a positive one. Eric LennstromSon

I met Glen when I was 16 years old. He was first a co-worker and a friend and then became a loving member of my family. Glen was outgoing, funny and a friend to all. He made everyone around him smile. Everyone wonders what their purpose in life is. I told Glen 2 weeks ago he never had to wonder. God put him here to bring so much joy into peoples lives. I told him mission complete. He was an amazing person, partner, father and grandfather to my whole family. He will be missed so much. Love, Carolyn Bonner

You were not only my grandfather you were there more than my own father. I looked up to you more than anything i would run home from school or work to tell you good news just to hear you say good job pumpkin. I miss that voice more than anyone could believe. I did figure one thing out though you taught me well, you planted things in me that are going to grow forever and i will get to do the same for my children and grandchildren. You may have left me physically but i know you will still always be here. I just want to say thankyou pop-glen for all the joy you have brought to all of our lives. you will always be loved and missed. Love, Megan
