Albert Wayne Bailey

SEP 1, 1947 - JAN 16, 2018

Albert Wayne Bailey died peacefully at home on Tuesday, January 16, 2018, after a 7-year battle with Alzheimer's.

Wayne, as he was known to family and friends, was born in Louisville, KY on September 1, 1947. He came to Maryland as a youngster, when his father was stationed at Andrews AFB, and remained in the area throughout his life.

Wayne attended Frederick Sasser High School in Upper Marlboro, where he met Sandra Hardesty, who would become his wife on February 24, 1967. Wayne spent 4 years in the Air Force with assignments at Barksdale AFB (Louisiana), Goosebay Labrador, Westover AFB (Mass.) and Kadina, Okinawa.

Following military service, Wayne began his career in telecommunications with C & P Telephone Co. as installer-repairman. In 1986 he left C & P to start his own business, Alternative Communications Systems (ACS), which served over 50 high-rise condominium buildings in Washington, DC. He ultimately sold his interest in the business to his partner and went to work for Verizon as a central office technician at the Pentagon.

He remained there until he retired in 2007. Just three years after retiring, he was diagnosed with early onset Alzheimers at age 63. The diagnosis had a dramatic effect on his ability to continue enjoying the many things he loved - camping, canoeing, travel, his Indian motorcycle, and his 72 Lincoln Continental.

His sense of adventure was replaced with quieter activities centered on family and close friends. In early January 2018 Wayne was placed in the care of hospice that assured his last days at home were comfortable. He passed away quietly in his sleep, with his wife and daughter by his side.

I loved the way he would talk to anyone! In the grocery store, at the gas station, in the bank . . . He would strike up a conversation with anybody that would listen. And no matter what, he would leave with a smile, and so would the person he was talking to. He will be missed.
